The Constitution is considered a “living document” that is subject to amendment. The committee also serves as a resource for the GADE Board regarding issues of adherence and compliance with the GADE Constitution & By-Laws.

Meeting Procedures

The GADE Board will appoint a chair for the Constitution and By-Laws committee – a standing committee of the GADE Board. Co-Chairs may also be appointed, and are recommended when the chair is not a member of the GADE Board. The committee meets annually, and more often as needed to address issues that arise with respect to the Constitution & By-Laws. Meetings should last no longer than one hour. If a longer meeting is anticipated, advance notice is recommended. In many cases, revisions to the Constitution & By-Laws will be suggested via email with several meetings taking place via email. The Chair/Co-Chair will determine the division of labor within the committee and what is most convenient for its members.

The committee chair/co-chair and/or GADE president should periodically solicit new members through the GADE website and through recruitment at the annual GADE conference. Upon GADE Board approval, the changes and rationale for changes will be presented at the annual GADE Business Meeting for voting. In accordance with Article XI – Amendments: This Constitution may be amended by an approval of two-thirds of the voting members present at the annual business meeting or two thirds of voting members polled by mail or e-mail, providing that said amendments have been sent out to all members at least three weeks prior to the meeting.

Summary of Treasurer Responsibilities

Dues. GADE membership terms coincide with the academic year. At the beginning of the academic year (in September), the treasurer will send an updated invoice and W-9 form to all programs via the GADE list-serv. Programs have the option of paying by credit card through the GADE website or by check via postal mail. The treasurer is responsible for depositing checks received by postal mail.

Banking. GADE has a checking account with a checkbook and debit card. Bank statements are available electronically. Bank statements reflect credit card payments from the website as well as check deposits and withdrawals. The treasurer and GADE president should have check signing privileges.

Bookkeeper. The treasurer should work closely with a bookkeeper hired to work as needed. The treasurer will make monthly bank statements available to the bookkeeper who will transfer data to the GADE online QuickBooks account. The bookkeeper will keep the QuickBooks records updated and can assist the treasurer in preparing the Treasurer's Report to present at the annual GADE conference.

GADE Conference. The budget, income, and expenses for the annual GADE conference are developed and tracked by the host university in collaboration with the conference planning committee. Conference registration fees and sponsorships go directly to the host university. At the conclusion of each conference, the host university determines the net income and sends to the GADE treasurer a check for half the net income. The host university keeps the remaining half.

CSWE and SSWR. The treasurer works with the GADE president to pay for program ads, display booths, and conference receptions/breakfasts at CSWE and SSWR. Expenses can be paid upon receipt of the appropriate invoices.

GADE Awards. The treasurer will write checks to the recipients of the GADE awards. The checks for the Student Teaching Award, the Student Leadership/Service Award and the Faculty Educational Leadership Award are presented at the CSWE conference; the checks for the Student Research Award and the Faculty Donna Harrington Mentoring Award are presented at the SSWR conference. In all cases, the treasurer should arrange to obtain the Social Security Numbers of the award winners, as the cash awards must be reported with tax information.

Tax reporting. Annually, the treasurer will provide information on GADE income and expenses to an accounting firm (currently Gelman, Rosenberg, and Freedman) which will submit the required Form 990-N to the IRS.

CPA Reviews.. A non-profit of GADE's size is required to have a bi-annual review by a Certified Public Accountant. The treasurer will facilitate the bi-annual reviews. In June of each odd year, the GADE treasurer will submit financial files and documents from the preceding two years to a CPA. The CPA reviews should be conducted every two years in the summer, so reviews will cover a time period overlapping with the term of the GADE treasurer in office at the time of the review. (The reviews will cover the year when the current treasurer serves as treasurer-elect and the first year of each treasurer's term.) If issues or missing documents are identified, or questions raised, the current treasurer will be in position to answer questions and help to resolve any issues.

Record keeping. All check transactions, including checks to GADE award recipients and travel reimbursement to GADE officers, should include a matching electronic document specifying the purpose of the payment. Documents listing the names of GADE award recipients and the dates of the awards should be kept with other invoices in the GADE treasurer's files. Reimbursement for travel should include receipts as well as documentation (such as e-mail messages) clearly specifying the reason for the travel and costs.

Marketing & Website Committee

Committee Charge

The GADE Marketing/Website committee is charged with the monitoring, securing, maintaining, and continual improvement of the GADE website. The committee may serve as a resource to the GADE Board for matters related to information regarding communication technology and social media.

Website Basics

The GADE website is located at www.GADEPhD.org. The GADE president will designate a staff person, typically a tech-savvy graduate-level student at the president's home institution, to serve as staff technical support assistant. The technical support assistant will be a "Super Admin," having all rights and privileges to make edits to the site. Renee Cerullo from RL Computing will provide the assistant with a username and password.

The assistant will be responsible for the following:

- Uploading content as directed by the Marketing/Website committee and by the GADE president
- Creating and adding pages and modules
- Uploading blog posts
- Editing membership content
- Making regular reports to the Marketing/Website committee on website changes
- Taking notes during the meetings and providing a draft copy of the meeting minutes to the committee chair

Website Content Management

The website currently (May 2018) has the following content pages under the main Navigation Bar:

- Home
- About Us
- Prospective Applicants
- Membership
- GADE Guide
- Awards
- Conference
- Resources
- Contact Us

Content on each web page should be consistent with website branding. The technical support assistant will make website changes as requested by the GADE Board and/or the Marketing/Website Committee. There are also regular changes that will need to be made following the GADE calendar for items such as the Board membership, committee membership and GADE awardees.

GADE Membership Listings and Procedures

In order to be added as a member of GADE, each member institution must be up to date with GADE dues per GADE bylaws. Once membership is approved, the institutional member can then be added to the website. Content needed for website addition includes School Name, Address, Contact Info of Program Director (Name, Email, Phone, Fax) whether PhD or DSW program. GADE members notify the GADE president about changes to doctoral leadership for their respective institutions. The technical support assistant will make changes accordingly to the directory of programs noted on the website.

Meeting Procedures

The GADE Board will appoint a chair for the Marketing/Website committee. Co-Chairs may also be appointed, and are recommended when the chair is not a member of the GADE Board. The committee meets at least twice per year, and more often as needed, to address issues that arise with respect to the website and marketing

The committee does not have set terms for membership. Members are requested to give a one-month notice should they choose to resign. The committee chair/co-chair and/or the GADE president should periodically solicit new members through the GADE website and through recruitment at the annual GADE conference.

Cloud Storage of Folders

GADE marketing/website materials that are not of a confidential nature will be kept on a shared cloud storage system. It is recommended that the technical support assistant maintain the cloud storage and update access to the site as needed to correspond to changes in committee membership. The current GADE President and President-Elect should have access to the folder.

Website Maintenance

Responsibilities for maintenance (whom to contact for troubleshooting):

Renee Cerullo, cerullo@rlcomputing.com

716.656.8958

HELP DESK - support.RLComputing.com

Skype: renee.cerullo

Hours of Operation: Monday thru Friday 8am - 5pm EST

Password Information

Website security is critically important. There are security safeguards in place on the GADE website established by RL Computing, and RL Computing should be consulted with any questions or concerns. The 'Super Admin' password is needed to make changes to the GADE website. The password should follow 'strong password' standards and be changed at least twice per year. The password should be recorded on a secure site (separate from the GADE website) and maintained by the GADE president and president-elect. Only the technical support assistant, the GADE president, and the GADE president-elect should know the GADE website password.

Meeting Planning and Notification (applies to all committees)

A doodle poll is recommended so that members may attend at a time convenient with their schedule. In advance of each meeting, the Chair or Co-Chairs will send a meeting agenda, minutes from the prior meeting, and any relevant attachments. Committee members are encouraged to make their web-based conferencing software (Zoom, Blue Jeans, etc.) available so that members may attend through live video. A dial-in option is also recommended for those who wish to participate by telephone. As members are participating in different time zones, the chair should make sure that the time zone is clear for all doodle polls, agendas, and other materials. Meetings should last no longer than one hour. If a longer meeting is anticipated, advance notice is recommended.
