Veterans and Military Social Work / Open Rank

Tenure track position beginning September 2015: The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College/CUNY invites applicants to apply for an open rank faculty position.

Background:

The Silberman School of Social Work (formerly Hunter College School of Social Work) has a national reputation as a leader in public urban education. Established in 1958, the School's mission is to prepare highly competent social work leaders to work in a variety of professional roles, settings, and communities in New York and other major urban centers in order to improve the lives of poor, vulnerable, and stigmatized people and the communities in which they live. The School is located in a state-of-the art building in the historic and vibrant New York City neighborhood of East Harlem. Our curriculum, scholarship, and agency partnerships reflect a commitment to recruiting and educating a diverse student body, and innovations in social policy and practice that values cultural complexity and social justice for New Yorkers, their neighborhoods, and its work force. The School has 43 full-time faculty, 1200 MSW students, is in the process of initiating a BSW program, and, in conjunction with The CUNY Graduate Center, offers a Ph.D. in Social Welfare. The School hosts major research and training partnerships including a nationally recognized and funded program for returning veterans that provides services, leadership opportunities, and academic assistance throughout the CUNY system.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have an earned doctorate in social work or a related field. Preferred qualifications include applicants who have an MSW degree, at least two years of practice experience, and a proven track record of funded research. Applicants with demonstrated success in agency and community based partnerships that provide opportunities for faculty scholarship and the development of improved service models and delivery systems are especially encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in applicants with a strong scholarly record in the areas of military social work, mental health services to veterans, or services to the families and children of veterans.

Rank and salary: Dependent on academic background and experience.

Applicants: If interested, please provide a cover letter specifying primary area of scholarship and records of funded research, a curriculum vitae, and names of three references to:
